

Conducting FBA's & Creating BIP's with Dr. Mark Dixon

At times, all children can struggle with challenging behavior. If a challenging behavior interferes with the student's ability to learn, then a functional behavioral assessment (FBA) is needed. The information collected during the FBA process should be used to create effective Behavioral Intervention Plans (BIP).

Join Dr. Mark Dixon, a professor of behavior analysis and therapy, and board certified behavior analyst, on October 29, 2021 from 12:30-2:30 p.m. for a Live Zoom Training to learn how to collect behavioral data to assist school teams in analyzing the student's environment and constructing positive supports to promote appropriate behaviors conducive to learning.
